How to Support the Library

Introduction

The Alumni clock in the Eckenhoff Reference Room

Your gift to support the mission of the Galter Health Sciences Library is greatly appreciated by library staff and users.

Gifts to the Galter Library will be used to acquire information resources -- books, journals or media in a variety of formats -- that support the research, patient care and education missions of the Feinberg School of Medicine. Funds are established to support specific activities and collections.

Your gifts not only support the mission of the library but can also memorialize a colleague, friend or loved one. Galter Library bookplates are designed to acknowledge your gift and to recognize the person who is to be honored.

In addition, the library accepts gifts in kind, specifically recently published books that match the Galter Library’s collection policy, or rare books in the health, life or biological sciences. For the donation of recently published works (titles published within the last five years or so), please contact Ramune Kubilius, Collection Development/Special Projects Librarian, at 312-503-1912. To donate rare books or unusual items such as instruments and other artifacts important to the history of medicine, dentistry, physical therapy, nursing, pharmacy or other health disciplines, please contact Heidi Nickisch Duggan, Deputy Director, at 312-503-1051.
