Celebrate with us the opening of the "Shakespeare and the four humors" exhibit at Galter Library

The Galter Health Sciences Library cordially invites you to the opening of:

A exhibition developed and produced by the Exhibition Program at the National Library of Medicine and the Folger Shakespeare Library

When: Thursday, December 11th, 2014, 4:00 to 5:00 pm

Where: Galter Health Sciences Library

Catherine Belling, PhD, Associate Professor in Medical Education – Medical Humanities and Bioethics will deliver a talk entitled:

Bleeding is Good for You! Humoral Physiology and Therapeutic Violence in Shakespeare

Q & A to follow

Learn more about the exhibit, which runs through January 2.

About Catherine Belling, PhD

Catherine Belling, PhD, is Associate Professor of Medical Humanities and Bioethics at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. Her current research concerns medical suspense fiction and film of the 1970s as an anxious popular reflection of the emergence of bioethics as a public discourse. Her first book, A Condition of Doubt: On the Meanings of Hypochondria (Oxford, 2012), won the 2013 Kendrick Book Prize (Society for Literature, Science, and the Arts), and was listed in the New York Daily News "10 Best Books of 2012." Her essay, "Narrative Oncogenesis" (Narrative, 18), won the 2010 Schachterle Prize. She is editor of the journal Literature and Medicine (Johns Hopkins U Press), and has served on the Board of Directors of the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities.