

Celebrating National Medical Librarians Month: How can Galter Library Help Me?

The Medical Library Association \(MLA\) designated October as National Medical Librarians Month to raise awareness of the important role of the health information professional. Medical librarians are essential partners in helping you find credible health information and streamlining your research. They are experts in information management, evidence-based practice, and research impact.

How can Galter Library help me?

- Visit the Library: Galter Library strives to be a safe and welcoming space within the Northwestern community, offering various spaces dedicated to quiet study, collaboration, and research discovery. We have 11 small conference rooms that can be reserved through this form, and a wellness room on the first floor dedicated to mental and emotional wellness. On the second floor, you can find our computer classroom equipped with a variety of software and our walking treadmills and study bikes where you can keep up with your steps while you work.
- Access to E-Resources: In addition to our physical collection the library offers access to valuable literature databases and resources. Search library databases, read journal articles online, and view electronic textbooks: A-Z Databases; Ebook Collections.
- Research Support: We have several research support services that range from quick informational answers to in-depth literature searches, systematic reviews, and specialized support. If you are about to embark on a research project, funding proposal, or systematic review, request a consultation so that we can best meet your information needs. Be sure to check out our online GalterGuides which serve as a one-stop portal for library instructional content and expert-recommended subject resources.
- Workshops and Trainings: Library Workshops and Trainings are offered monthly and by request. We offer monthly EndNote and PubMed classes, as well as Conducting a Systematic Review, Conducting a Scoping Review, Choosing a Journal, and 10 Simple Rules for Data Cleaning with Excel. Check the library website for the current schedule of classes.
