Foundations in Genomic Analyses Workshop Series

Register today!

This special workshop series will cover topics and skills foundational to conducting genomics-related research. This series is a collaboration between Northwestern IT's Research Computing and Data Services and the Galter Library. Attendees are welcome to attend just one or as many workshops in the series they are interested in. However, there may be some references to previous weeks' material in any given workshop.

Classes offered:

- File Types and Quality Control : Wed, Oct 9 at 1:00 pm

- Sequence Alignment and Mapping Reads : Wed, Oct 16 at 1:00 pm

- Genome Browsers: Wed, Oct 23 at 1:00 pm

- Sequence Similarity Searching: Wed, Oct 30 at 1:00 pm

- Creating an R Environment for Analysis with the GCC : Wed, Nov 6 at 1:00 pm

- Getting Started with nf-core Nextflow Pipelines : Wed, Nov 20 at 1:00 pm
